Youth Center In Park District Is Tentative Plan

Plans for a park district to acquire land for natural areas in and around Carmel expanded Tuesday to include financing the Carmel Youth Center.

These two projects will have to be bunched into one administration since in the state code park and recreation mean the same thing, William Wakefield, Carmel School District Recreation Director, told city council members and county representatives in committee meeting at city hall Tuesday.

The school board has been considering the establishment of a County Service Area to finance the Youth Center, since community chest funds will no longer be available after the first of the year.

The city has been discussing forming a park district to finance purchase of the areas set aside for acquisition as natural and recreation parks in the Green Belt portion of the proposed master plan.

Wakefield pointed out that since parks and recreation are synonymous in the lexicon of the state, and the boundaries of the two districts would be the same, roughly the boundaries of the school dis-

Red Cross Sponsors Panel On Community Services Available

The Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter of the American Red Cross will have a special program following the Quarterly Board Meeting Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock at the chapter house.

Invitations have been sent to service clubs, ministers and school administrators to take part in the panel discussions on "Social Services Available in the Community" led by Red Cross Executive Secretary, Miss Dorothy F. James. Representatives of the following agencies will form the panel.

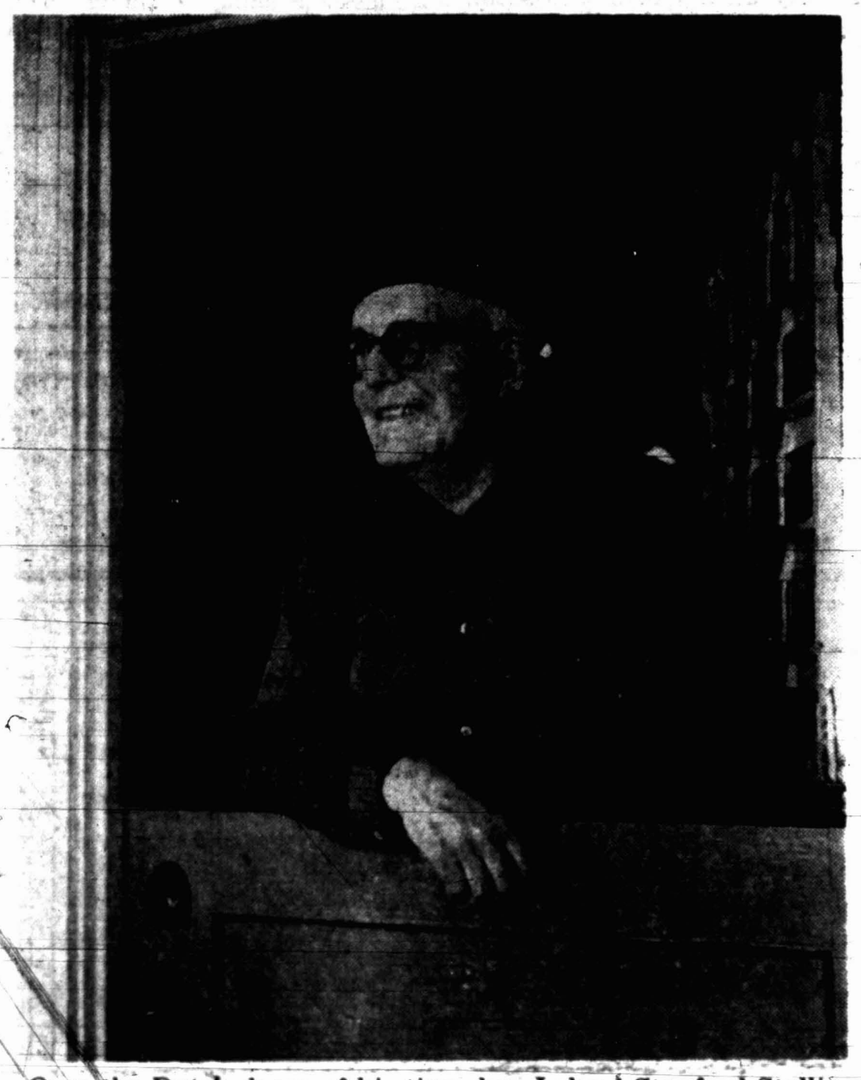
Alcoholics Information, Mr. Malcolm Millard; Legal Aid Service, Mr. Malcolm Millard; Carmel Foundation, Mrs. Ruth Sarett; Family Service, Mrs. Lorraine Luker; Health Department; Miss Martha Burt; Visiting Nurses Association, Miss Dorothy Krueger; Veterans Service, Mr. Claude Estill; Welfare Department, Mrs. Elizabeth Hill; Inter-Agency Conference, Miss Patricia Carey.

Mrs. Talcott Bates will represent the Monterey Peninsula Community Service which has been one of the sponsors for the new directory of social welfare agencies now being circulated.

THANKS FOR THE LETTERS

We wish to acknowledge letters to the editor on the master plan from George Bestor, Mrs. Gladys Johnston and Miss Lucile Turner. They will be published in next issue. This, because of the holiday, is a bobtailed edition and space is rationed.

Letters on the plan, for or against, are exceedingly welcome, and serve an important purpose since the plan is now in the public hearing stage, yet the community has had no public forum on it.



Over the Dutch doors of his tiny shop Leland Stanford Stallings makes some observations on the world's most popular hobby.

Some Collect Them For Love, Some For Money, Some On Dr.'s Orders

BY BOB KALLER

Among the recent great discoveries by followers of the stock market, real estate investments, oil leases, etc., was that the appreciative possibilities of stamps far exceeded that of the more prosaic investments. In short, the formerly despised hobby of children and maiden aunts can be used to make money. With a whoop and a holler the percentage boys descended on this ancient hobby, and it will never be quite same.

One who views this development with somewhat of a shudder is Carmel's top stamp man, Leland Stanford Stallings.

Mr. Stallings, a dispenser of stamps, coins and good advice, in his tiny Dolores Street stamp shop, first saw the light of day in Alhambra, Illinois, shortly before the turn of the century. His father, originally a farmer and subsequently an attorney, was a coin collector and young Leland quite naturally took to acquiring stamps and coins also. By the time he went to the University of Illinois, he had a fairly sizable collection — but an unexpected incident slowed his coin fever for quite a while. Shipping his horde from one place to another, he discovered just before Christmas that his entire coin collection had been stolen. This tended to jaundice the tall, well-built Mr. Stallings. Reflectively he decided that while coins would be a great temptation, fewer people were likely to bother about a lot of old stamps, and for many years, as a result, that remained his point of concentration.

After graduation Stallings taught agriculture and science for about five years in Minnesota, and then during the first World War was county agricultural agent in Wilkin, Minn., for a decade. For another ten years he was a Land Bank appraiser for the Federal Land Bank, then he spent several years helping the state of Minnesota to liquidate its real estate holdings.

Since his mother had lived in Carmel for some time, Stallings and his wife and four children came to Carmel in 1945 and shortly thereafter started a shop, with

Coleman Wins Drags At San Jose, 109 mph

Rick Coleman, who set a new record at the drag races in Salinas two weeks ago, beat all competition in the A.S.R. class (A class street roadster) at San Jose Sunday, reaching a speed of 109.75 miles per hour.

Rick was driving the same Mark Luzier built car, a 1932 Ford roadster equipped with a Cadillac engine with a four-carburetor manifold. Luzier told the Pine Cone he is going to do some more work on the roadster, "to get it to go faster."

Luzier broke the record at San Jose for the A. A. Class last year when his purple Ford Coupe with its Cadillac engine reached 115 miles per hour in the drags. He has started work on the station wagon to get it ready for the Bonneyville Races in two weeks.

Agriculture Com. Approves Teague Liggett Land Swap

A telegram from Congressman Charles M. Teague received yesterday says: "My bill to open to the public for recreational purposes 30,000 acres of Hunter-Liggett Land on Monterey County Southern coast just approved by the House Agriculture Sub-committee. Am confident of favorable action by full committee and house within next two weeks. Actual opening probable in early 1957 as Senate has passed identical bill."

Teague's bill provides for the swap of 43,000 acres of National Forest land "already impacted and not desirable for recreational use," for 25,000 acres of coastal lands and 2500 acres in the vicinity of The Indians, according to District Ranger Alex Campbell at King City, with whom the Pine Cone talked by phone yesterday.

Campbell says the coast land the National Forest Service would receive from the Army starts at Lime Kiln Creek and extends to the county line. Included is the Pacific Valley region, the Salmon Creek area and the Hearst Lands that were sold to the Army.

National Forest would give up 45,000 acres in the following areas: Wizard Peak at the head of Stoney Valley, land between the Nacimiento and San Antonio Rivers; the San Miguel and Los Burros drainages east of the coast range, areas south of the Nacimiento.

Campbell says negotiations have been going on for years for this switch, and were about completed when the Korean War came along. They were resumed again after the war and the Army and Forestry Service have reached an agreement that needs only approval of Congress. The senate bill mentioned in Teague's telegram is an enabling act passed to allow such trades between National Forest and Army throughout the county. Teague's Bill covers this particular swap.

Campbell points out that though the National Forest is giving up over 15,000 more acres than it is receiving, the land it will acquire has great recreational value.

Most of the land the National Forests giving up has been shot over by the Army, is "impacted" and could never be used by the public.

Campbell Protests Orange Zone And Junipero Thruway

Among the written protests at the planning commission hearing last week on the master plan was a letter from Gordon Campbell. Campbell, a Carmel resident since childhood, is a member of the Carmel School Board and of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on the Master Plan. In his letter he said:

"I wish strongly to protest any declaration or use of Junipero Street with particular reference to its course between Ocean Avenue to Santa Lucia being changed from its present general appearance and use as a busy traffic artery. It is one of the most beautiful streets in Carmel remaining, and it would seem a shame in the name of moving traffic over residential streets to turn it into a traffic artery.

"The streets in Carmel, at least in the residential district, should be ways of beauty, and not means of moving volumes of traffic over them.

"I also wish to register an objection to the increase in the size of the business district, and to, in effect, additionally increasing it by creating a buffer zone around it. The business district as it stands at the present time is too large in proportion to the present city limits of Carmel, and further extensions of it would help to obliterate the Carmel we are trying to preserve."

SPEARFISHING CONTEST

The Central California Spear Fishing Championship will be held Sunday at Fan Shell Beach, starting at 10:00 o'clock in the morning and continuing all day.

Salgo Conducting Magnificat Opens 19th Annual Bach Festival July 16 Dr. Richard Lert Guest Conductor

Shortly after sunset Monday, July 16, the trombone choir will begin playing from the balcony windows of Sunset Auditorium in Carmel to announce the opening of the Nineteenth Annual Bach Festival. To the hundreds of people gathering in the schoolyard the sound of the old chorales is a call to come to a week of magnificent music.

At 8:30 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium Sandor Salgo, conductor for the nineteenth festival, will raise his baton to lead the chorus of sixty voices and the orchestra of forty in the joyous opening chorus of John Sebastian Bach's Magnificat in D. Throughout the week a series of programs of orchestral music, chamber music, organ recitals, instrumental and vocal ensembles will draw thousands of people from all over the country.

Honoring the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, the Nineteenth Bach Festival will include much of the work of the Viennese composer, ranging from the gaiety of his German dances on the Saturday night program to the poignant beauty of his Requiem which will be sung twice on Sunday, July 22, the closing day of the Festival.

Dr. Richard Lert, internationally famous conductor, will come to Carmel to conduct two concerts during the festival, a program of

THE SPORT WHEEL

Carmel Baseball Fans See Henry Overin Tame Salinas Packers—A rooting section of Carmel baseball fans made the trek to Salinas last Sunday afternoon to watch Henry Overin pitch Stockton to an impressive victory over the Salinas Packer nine. The former Carmel High star was in control all the way, scattering six hits over the seven-inning route while walking only three. Besides giving out with a brilliant hurling exhibition, Overin swung a big mace for the Ports, clubbing a three-bagger with the bases full to help himself to victory. Stockton plays in Salinas again on August 12th and Manager Roy Partee has indicated that the Carmel lefty will draw the pitching assignment for that one. Jack Giles, Youth Center Director, is arranging for a block of tickets so Carmel fans can have their own section to root for the village athlete. Those desiring tickets for the game should contact Giles at the Youth Center.

Examiner Baseball School At Monterey On July 23rd — One of the most worthwhile baseball enterprises in Northern California, the San Francisco Examiner Baseball School, will set up shop at El Estero Park in Monterey on July 23rd and all Peninsula kids from 12 to 19 years of age are invited to participate. The 12 to 15 year olds will have their workout from 1:30 to 3:00 o'clock and the 15-19 group will workout from 3:00 to 5:00. The faculty of this high class clinic is headed by former Cleveland Indian manager, Oscar Vitt, who is a wizard at imparting baseball fundamentals to youngsters. Helping Old Oz will be three of the best teachers in California, Bob Fatjo, Bellarmine High School coach, former Coast Leaguer and San Francisco coach, and Paddy Cottrell, for years a scout for the New York Yankees. Every boy participating in the school will have a chance to learn fundamentals, take his cuts at the plate, and go through fielding drills. Exceptional players have a chance to be selected for the Examiner All-Star game to be played in San Francisco.

A Vote of Thanks for Sponsors of Kids League Baseball Teams—Carmel small fry owe a real vote of thanks to the school recreation department and the sports-minded citizens who have so generously sponsored teams in the Kids League. The sponsors, George Dear, Carmel Sportshop, Carmel Color and Glass, Boystown, Burgess Auto Service, and Wermuth Transfer, have supplied uniforms for the sprouts and given them the next best thing to Little League baseball. Enthusiasm for play is great in this league and under the expert coaching of Buzz Rainer, Mike Mosolf, and Bob Michela, Carmel should have players developing who can match the finished performers turned out by the towns fortunate enough to have the Little League and the Babe Ruth League programs. Lack of an adequate baseball field is a handicap to the Carmel kids and action on the high school baseball field should be stepped up to give our youngsters an even chance.

GEORGE DEAR CUBS WIN

Nattily attired in new baseball jerseys and big league caps, Carmel's Kids League got off to a flying start Monday afternoon as the George Dear-sponsored Cubs hung a 5-4 defeat on the Jim Burgess-sponsored Auto Service aggregation. The Cubs parlayed the nifty pitching of Baxter Garcia and the heavy hitting of Pat Bein into an early four-run lead and coasted to the win. Bein connected for two blows in three trips to the plate and scored two runs for the Cubs. Big stick man for the Burgess crew was Mike Draper who drove in three runs with a mighty four-bagger over the center-fielder's head.

The Cubs continued their winning ways Tuesday afternoon at the expense of the Wermuth Transfer nine, blanking the movers, 5 to 0, as Garcia tossed up a classy one-hitter. Bobby Moffett was the only Wermuth player to connect safely off the swift slants of the clever little right-hander. Besides pitching winning ball, Garcia also homered to drive in three runs.

two small books of stamps and a few antiques. Eleven years later he corresponds with collectors and customers all over the world. More important to Stallings is the fact that his oldest son, who is starting to teach school in Monterey, is a collector and so are his two grandsons.

To return to the question of what has happened in the stamp world, the number of collectors has increased enormously over the past decade-and-half, Stallings points out. Not the least of the reasons for this is the fact that if one has invested a modest sum of slightly over ten dollars a month in this hobby the last fifty years, he would have invested some $7500, his purchases would be worth (at the current rate of exchange) some $750,000. This is a rate of return not to be sneezed at.

In addition, there has been a great amount of publicity given to stamps and coins over the last period, and people have become far more conscious of their possibilities as a collecting hobby. Doctors have taken to recommending collecting for relaxation purposes to patients living in a jumpy world. And finally, while kids used to have all kinds of chores years ago, Stallings says, today there are not enough things for them to do to take up their time and energy. Thoughtful parents have often taken to encouraging an interest in collecting stamps and coins as a result.

Europeans have always been far more avid collectors than Americans and, during the past two decades particularly, with large numbers of people in the position of having to become refugees at the drop of a hat, stamps have represented one of the few ways of taking valuable fortunes along during flight.

New York and London have become the great stamp markets of the world and speculation in stamps has caused prices to skyrocket (and sometimes descend again) with amazing rapidity.

Many people have taken to collecting by mail, not wanting the world at large to know that they have valuable collections, and the identity of the owner of the most valuable stamp in the world (a British black Guiana issue worth $50,000) is a closely guarded secret known to only a few men in the world.

The King of England and the late president, Franklin Roosevelt, were both well-known collectors but Stallings points out that while the president's collection was large, it was really not exceptionally valuable (It was auctioned off for some $150,000 after death, which Stallings says big-time collectors regard as peanuts).

In Carmel itself, the favorite concentration points for collectors are in the issues of the U.S., Germany and Great Britain, although many topical collectors have entered the lists. These are people who collect stamps showing such things as animals, birds, or insects, or some subject like warships or military heros, etc.

Stallings himself has an unusual concentration. He collects cancelled covers of Monterey Post Offices. Few people know, he points out, that there have been some 93 postoffices in Monterey County since it became part of the U. S. and that there are still 22 going strong today.

The first postmaster, a Captain William G. Marcy, officially took office in February 23, 1849, somewhat under protest since he did not want the office and insisted that the appointment not be permanent.

Pacific Grove got its first P.O. in 1886, Salinas in 1854, Seaside in 1890 and Carmel in October, 1889.

Pebble Beach was opened in 1909 and Marina in 1916.

Stallings thinks it important historically to the county to have a complete collection of covers from the various post offices existent and has been concentrating his personal efforts toward that end. He is constantly seeking new acquisitions and now has about half of all the office postmark cancellations ever issued from the county.

As an interesting sidelight he points out that the recent Grace Kelly wedding in Monaco netted that municipality twice as much revenue from the stamps sold as the wedding itself cost. Oddly enough, the Kelly wedding stamps still sell well in Carmel.

Stallings says that he has never been able to unearth any truly great finds during all his years of collecting, but twice he was actually on the trail of great discoveries. Both times fire destroyed the treasure horde he was seeking the day before he arrived on the scene. The last time made him somewhat superstitious and inclined to believe that Fate had ordained he should go his normal way, and not try to rearrange the ways of Fortune.

Mozart's music on Thursday, July 19, and the Saturday night concert, July 21.

Distinguished soloists who will play during the week include the great cellist Joseph Schuster, organist Ludwig Altman, singers Phyllis Moffet, Katherine Hilgenberg, James Schwabacher, Winther Andersen, harpsichordist Ralph Linsley, pianists Maxim Schapiro and Maurice Euphrat.

The Trojan String Quartet from the University of Southern California, preparing for a European tour, will be among the distinguished instrumentalists of the festival family which includes many first desk musicians from the major symphony orchestras of the west.

Lovers of instrumental music will relish the fine work for French horn, oboe, flute, harpsichord and viola, violin and piano, to be heard throughout the week. The entire cycle as concertos for cello and strings and horn by Boccherini, Vivaldi and Mozart.

Two of the unusual compositions to be heard this year are the Bach Cantata No. 147 on opening night and the Mozart Requiem on Sunday afternoon and evening, July 22. The entire festival this year is dedicated to the memory of Gastone Usigli, who for 17 years gave his seeemingly inexhaustible store of knowledge, enthusiasm and inspiration to produce music of incomparable beauty. The Bach Cantata No. 147 will be sung as a memorial for Hazel Watrous who from the beginning worked with Dene Denny and Usigli to make the Bach Festival the extraordinary creation which it is. The music for this cantata was purchased by the soloists and the members of the chorus and orchestra of the 1955 festival who wished it to be sung this year and from time to time in the future as a living memorial to Hazel Watrous. Twice in the cantata occurs the chorale known as "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" which is one of the most beloved of Bach's chorales.

Toastmasters' Stag Dinner

Carmel Toastmasters met at Holiday Inn for a stag dinner on Monday evening. Rollo Payne was in charge of Table Topics. Dr. Joseph Giarratana introduced the Independence Day theme of the meeting and announced the general subject for discussion, Freedom. Speakers were Dick Brown, Dr. Bela Maday, Ted Minnis and Colonel C. A. DeCamp. President Victor Velissaratos was general evaluator and also announced that several vacancies exist in the membership of the group. Anyone interested in becoming a member of Carmel Toastmasters Club is invited to their meetings each Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock in Carmel High School library.

ALCOHOLICS ANNONYMOUS meets Thursday night, 8 p.m. at Carmel Red Cross Bldg., 8th & Dolores. Invitation extended to any one with a drinking problem and to anyone who is interested.

Warshawsky Gives Fine Performance In Tea And Sympathy

Tea and Sympathy, the new play at The Wharf Theatre by Robert Anderson, dealing with a boys' boarding school and the cruel custom of hazing an innocent member, is more or less a problem play for personal interpretation of its all too human situations. Ruth Warshawsky, as the kind wife of Headmaster Reynolds and perceiver of the finer personal traits, carries off a difficult and intensely emotional part with the power and ingenuity familiar to those who have seen her in other parts.

William Christopher as the eighteen year old Tom Lee, who had grown up without his mother, is a sensitive dreamer with artistic instincts which intensely appeals to the mother in Laura Reynolds, who gives him 'tea and sympathy' in the study-sitting room. The part was well sustained by Christopher. The boy's bedroom, visible on the same level, shows Tom the victim of the rest of the school on a trumped up accusation which only mystifies and confuses his honest thought, producing complications for Bill Reynolds and Herbert Lee, the boy's father, between whom is a life-long friendship.

Excellently cast, these excited people, as well as John Crawford as Al, the boy's roommate, Bowden Anderson as David Harris, Louis Walterschiel as Ralph, Tom Read as Steve and Sam Wilson as Phil, depict the all too common aspects of mental cruelty from young and thoughtless groups. Florence Keaton as Lilly Sears, visiting Laura and listening with her to Tom's singing, also insinuates what Tom is not, though the boy is in deep "puppy" love with Laura. The play's finale will be approved as a psychological outcome.

Thomas Brock and his assistants are to be congratulated on the portrayal and setting of this play which gives way Thursday to Bus Stop. —Mary Lindsay-Oliver.

NEW CHIEF HOUSE HUNTING

Bob Smith, Carmel's first paid fire chief, started work on July 1. In his free moments he is busily trying to find a house here so that he can bring his wife, Rose, and two sons; Hans, fours years old, and Eric, two; to Carmel to live. Meanwhile, he is living at the firehouse.

Mrs. Smith and the boys joined Chief Smith for the Fourth of July holiday, coming from Woodlands where Smith was fire marshall before accepting the job in Carmel.

DONKEY BALL NETS $200

Carmel Lions Club took in $200 at the Lions-Firemen Donkey Baseball game at the High School Field on Sunday afternoon. The money is for the Lions Youth Activity Fund which supports the Youth Center, cub and girl scouting.

Who won the game is a moot point. The score was 5-5 at the end of the fifth inning with the Lively Lions claiming victory over the Fierce Firemen and vice versa. A donkey race from midfield settled the argument when the Firemen, trained to get places quickly, even on donkeys, arrived at the post before the Lions.

La Verne, the old fire engine, chugged up the hill, bringing the firemen en masse to the fray. The Lions arrived separately in individual cars. The donkeys patiently waited, as only donkeys can. Everyone had fun.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thoruburg

A library is strictly non-commercial, in that it never has things to sell, but sometimes it has things to give away. Right now we have many copies of two valuable pamphlets to give away, and they are going rather well. One is called The Worry-Go-Round, How to Understand Your Everyday Tensions. The other is entitled Growing Old Successfully. We asked for and received two hundred copies of each, and we hope that if either or both titles appeal to you, that you will hasten in and help yourself to a copy. From time to time we shall have other helpful material to give away. Remember to check the shelves to the left of the door as you enter the library.

Are you afraid of ghosts? You probably wouldn't admit it if you were. Carl Carmer has a new book just out called The Screaming Ghost, and Other Stories, and it is most interesting. He takes his stories and legends about ghosts from all over the country, and puts them in unsensational prose for the believer and the scoffer to read, and then form their own opinions. A small book, this, and well worth reading.

The broad sweep of history is pictured in The Hidden Heritage by John Howard Lawson. As he describes the events of the ages, he is concerned with the clash of ideas between the forces of reaction and those which stand for progress. This is the first of a projected series of books in the field of cultural history which Mr. Lawson intends to write. A history of America, written by an Englishman for an English audience, is The Great Experiment by Frank Thistlewaite. The author spent the years 1938 to 1940 studying American history at the University of Minnesota. He is now a professor at Cambridge University. In this book he tries to explain to his own countrymen the American people and what makes America the way it is. This British viewpoint should be interesting to American readers.

Sylvanus Cadwallader was a war correspondent attached to Grant's headquarters during three years of the Civil War. His journals have been edited by Benjamin Thomas and published under the title Three Years With Grant. This is an important book because it gives a personal view of Grant the general, and a civilian picture of how war was waged in those days.

We have a replacement copy of the Collected Poems of Robert Graves. Some private collector swept up the copy we had on the examination shelves, and never did return it. So the first waiting list is gone and we proceed to gather [illegible] a second, we hope.

Karl Eskelund describes a journey he and his wife took down the mountainous spine of South America, in his new book Vagabond Fever. They went on foot, by train, truck, and boat. The author is a foreign correspondent for a Danish newspaper.

Another Ogrizek book has come on our order for several of the series, and this one is on South and Central Africa. Like the others, it is wonderfully illustrated in both color and black and white. There are many maps, and much valuable information on the continent and its peoples.

LOFTON NAVAJO DESERT SHOW

Paintings of the Navajo Desert is the general theme of Richard Lofton's one-man show opening on Sunday afternoon in the Cannery Row Gallery on David Avenue in Monterey. The pictures will be on display from 3:00 o'clock till 6:00. Anyone interested in seeing Lofton's latest work, done last month on a camping trip in the Monument Valley and Canyon de Chelly country, is invited to Sunday's opening. The paintings will remain on the walls of the gallery until August 1. Visiting hours are from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock every afternoon except Mondays.

Lofton's pictures will be shown unframed just as he finished them, in keeping with the informal atmosphere of the new gallery.

"The paintings have great emotional impact", says gallery curator, Barbara Graham.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

THE ARMY AND LAND USE

This is a sequel to last week's column in which I described the questionable attitude and practices of the Army Engineers in conservation matters. The military mind doesn't seem to comprehend or isn't interested in the importance of proper land use. I shall cite two instances, both typical ones, that involve all the branches of the Defense Department.

Last year the Secretary of the Army asked to have 10,700 acres of the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge in Oklahoma transferred to the Army for an Artillery range. The Secretary of the Interior who administers the wildlife refuges of the country refused to grant the request, holding that the area was unique and irreplaceable as a refuge. He offered certain accommodations which he said would answer the Army's need. The conservation groups of the country strongly backed the Secretary of the Interior and the issue soon became a cause celebre.

This year the Army once more returned to the attack. They had a bill introduced in the House of Representatives (H. R. 9665) which would require Congress to transfer the land in question to be a part of the Fort Sill Military Reservation. Hearings have recently been held on the bill and the Committee report is awaited.

In the course of the hearings testimony was offered by officers of the National Wildlife Federation and by Fred Packard, Exec. Sec'y. of the National Parks Association, who had personally inspected the area in question, to the effect that the Army had made false and misleading statements about it. In the National Parks Magazine for Oct.-Dec. 1955 Mr. Packard wrote: "With complete disregard for the truth, Army generals told the committee these 10,700 acres were of no value to the refuge." This is indeed a serious situation and certainly tends to undermine confidence in the military brass involved.

Suggestions have been made more than once that perhaps the attitude of the military is influenced by a desire to have a private hunting preserve for the top brass. In certain cases, especially a recent one in Arizona, the Commanding Officer refused to recognize the validity of State hunting laws. Another bill has been introduced into Congress by the wildlife groups to take care of high-handed actions of this kind.

The second instance of conflict between conservationists and the military concerns the efforts of all branches of the Defense Department to have large areas of the public domain set aside for their exclusive use. These efforts have reached such proportions that hearings were recently held before the House Committee on the Interior, Hon. Clair Engle of California chairman, over a period from January to May, and the results have been published in a "Withdrawal and Utilization of the Public Lands of the U.S." Anyone interested in the problem should write to his congressman for a copy.

The essence of the hearings was that millions of acres of land have been withdrawn from public use, such as grazing, mining, hunting, and other forms of recreation, for the use of the military and that more applications are pending. Congressman Engle and others frequently asked whether the different branches of the Defense Department couldn't agree to duplicate use of much of this land, instead of asking for immense areas of their own. This and other questions were not answered satisfactorily and the issue is still in an unsettled state.

TRAVELLERS RETURNING

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McHarry and their two daughters, Gail and Linda, will be back in Carmel in two weeks. They are sailing from Cannes on the Constitution and will arrive here on July 25. They have been away since last August, the parents travelling about Europe while the girls were in school.

New numbers start with these prefixes:

CARMEL	MAyfair 4
CARMEL VALLEY	OLive 9
MONTEREY	FRontier 2
	FRontier 5

The new numbers will pave the way for eventual direct dialing of your own long distance calls.

for good service after the change, just follow these simple steps

1. Starting Sunday morning, July 15, at 12:01 a.m., please look up the new number in your new directory before you call. You'll be getting your new directory soon.
2. Jot the number down. It helps to have the number in front of you so you won't forget it while you dial.
3. Dial carefully . . . the first two letters and the numeral of the prefix, then the four other figures. For example, to call FRontier 2-0015, dial FR 2 . . . then 0-0-1-5.

Watch for a folder in the mail . . . which explains the changes in your telephone service. Please read it carefully and keep it near your telephone for quick reference.

Please Remember...
Numbers also change in Salinas and Castroville. The new numbers will be listed in your new directory.

BASTILLE DAY CELEBRATION

La Causerie Francaise will hold its annual celebration of Bastille Day at Los Laureles Lodge, in Carmel Valley July 14, and this year the party is not limited to members and their invited guests. There will be swimming in the afternoon for those who wish it, followed by a Smorgasbord dinner at 6:00 o'clock. French singing and dancing will follow the dinner. There will be a nominal charge for the dinner, for which a few reservations are still available. These must be filled by July 6 at the latest, and may be made by telephoning Brad Buckminster at 7-3789. Transportation will be provided from the doors of the Carmel Art Association Gallery at 5:00 o'clock for those without their own automobiles.

Stanley Operating Cypress West With La Playa Hotel

Ashton A. Stanley, operator of Hotel La Playa in Carmel, has negotiated a long term lease on the Cypress West Hotel, and July 1 began to operate it in conjunction with La Playa.

The Cypress West is located four blocks from La Playa and guests of the new property will have the use of all La Playa's facilities including the swimming pool. The Cypress West, built about 20 years ago, has 30 guest rooms, all with bath, and a dining room. It is designed in picturesque Carmel style architecture.

La Playa for some time has been operating at capacity and during the last year has developed a very substantial volume of group business. Mr. Stanley said the new hotel will enable him to accommodate larger groups that would have overtaxed the facilities of La Playa alone.

Mr. Stanley, formerly the manager of the Hotel Ambassador in Los Angeles, resigned June 1 from the management of Hotel del Coronado.

Ann Spurr Wed In Mission

Elizabeth Ann Spurr, older daughter of Mrs. G. D. Hodgson, was married to Warren Edward Conrad on Saturday at noon. The ceremony, performed by Monsignor Michael D. O'Connell, took place in Carmel Mission, decorated for the occasion with arrangements of white gladioli and stock, and was witnessed by a group of close friends and relatives.

Ann, given in marriage by her stepfather, G. D. Hodgson, wore an embroidered organdy gown. The tight fitting bodice was made with a heart-shaped neckline and cap sleeves. The full skirt of the dress extended into a short train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a pearl trimmed tulle cap and her bouquet was an arrangement of white marguerites and yellow roses.

Sally Spurr was maid of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were Mrs. Hugh Johnston of San Francisco and Marilyn Cole of San Gabriel. They wore identical frocks of yellow dotted Swiss trimmed with satin and carried bouquets of white marguerites, with bandeaux of the same flowers in their hair.

E. E. Conrad of Redondo Beach was best man for his son and ushers were Al Erickson of San Jose and Bill Hodgson of Carmel. Ringbearer was the bride's cousin, John Jordan of Stockton.

The reception following the wedding was held at La Playa Hotel, where Mrs. Hodgson received the guests wearing a pink silk sheath dress and matching duster, a pink hat and a corsage of baby roses.

Mrs. Conrad, the groom's mother, attended the wedding in a pale blue ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of white stephanotis. Also present at the marriage was the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Frederick Bastien. Patty Jordan, the bride's cousin, was in charge of the guest book.

The bride and groom are honeymooning in Columbia, California. When Ann left for her wedding trip she donned a beige shantung sheath dress with matching jacket trimmed in white, a white hat and accessories, and a corsage of baby yellow roses.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. William Lyons and Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Jordan of Stockton, aunts and uncles of the bride.

John And Collette Here

John and Collette Chaffey, and their two young sons, Mark and Jonathan, are occupying the Laidlaw Williams house in Carmel Highlands for a few weeks. John has been Science teacher in the Fall River Mills High School in Northern California for the past year and will return for another year at the same school in September. Collette is the daughter of Mrs. Vada Ferguson and John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Chaffey, Sr., of Pacific Grove.

The Williams family is spending the summer in Nova Scotia.

Barbara Wemmer Married

Barbara Eisenlohr Wemmer, daughter of Mrs. Phillips S. Davies, and Louis James Stone were married on Saturday afternoon in the Church of the Wayfarer by the Reverend Charles H. Burrill before the altar banked with white gladioli and stock. Ivory stock tied with satin ribbon decorated each pew.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle and godfather, Otto W. Eisenlohr of Santa Ana. She chose an ivory silk taffeta gown for her wedding, made with a scoop neckline, long sleeves, and a full pleated skirt which fell, in back, into a cathedral train. Her veil was a family heirloom of rosepoint lace trimmed with pearls and she carried a cascade arrangement of ivory antherium.

Mrs. Jim Reed was her sister's matron of honor and bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. William Bockstahler, Nancy Newhoff of San Francisco, Susan Cadick, Helen Cole and Sally Ann Kackley, all of Indianapolis, the bride's former home.

The attendants were dressed alike in cocktail length green and blue changeable taffeta gowns made with scoop necklines in front extending into deep V's in back and with the skirts, straight in front and full in the back. They wore crowns of green leaves in their hair and carried bouquets of ivory begonias and magnolia leaves.

George Solibakke of Los Angeles was best man and ushers were Jim Reed, Robert H. McKenney, H. Jack Carr, Robert E. LeBow and Rodrigo P. Carvajal, all of San Francisco and Charles Judson Hurlbut of Los Angeles and Marvin McLeod of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

The reception was held at Del Monte Lodge in the Party Room.

Mrs. Davies, the bride's mother, wore a sheath dress of parchment satin for her daughter's wedding, a large matching maline hat and a corsage of American Beauty color begonias.

Mrs. Elwin Joshua Stone of Fremont, Michigan, the groom's mother, attended the wedding in an aqua taffeta dress, a white feather hat and corsage of coral begonias.

When the couple left for a honeymoon in Mexico, the bride changed to a black and white checked silk dress, emerald green silk coat, and a large black straw hat. Her accessories were black and she pinned a corsage of white orchids to her handbag. They will make their home in Fremont, Michigan, but plan, eventually, to live on the Monterey Peninsula.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lyman S. Ayres and their daughter, Elise, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Helen Ann Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Schoonover of Lima, Ohio, cousins of the bride. The groom's aunt, Mrs. Charles Bolthouse of Grant, Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Eisenlohr of Santa Ana, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Choral Wedding For Audrey

Audrey Doreen Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Campbell, was married on Saturday evening to Alexander Morrison, in a choral, double ring ceremony performed by the Reverend Angus Dun, Jr., in All Saints' Church.

The bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white satin with a long train. A coronet of pearls held her fingertip veil in place and she carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and stephanotis.

Mrs. Linda Geiger of Berkeley was Audrey's matron of honor and bridesmaids were Ann Thoeni of Carmel and Kathy Seipel of Los Angeles. They were dressed alike in turquoise crystallette floor-length frocks made with full skirts and fitted bodices with scoop necklines in front, v-shaped in back. Their flowers were bouquet arrangements of pink rosebuds.

Gayle Campbell, the bride's niece, was flower girl wearing a long white satin dress and carrying a basket of pink rosebuds. Russell Campbell, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer in a white suit and carried a white satin cushion on which rested the two rings used in the ceremony.

Best man for the groom was his cousin, James Y. Sproule of San Mateo. Ushers were Lloyd B. Campbell, the bride's brother, William Gibson and Don Johnson. Acolyte and bell ringer was Audrey's youngest brother, Harold W. Campbell. During the ceremony The Lord's Prayer was sung by Richard Boolotian, accompanied by the choir and Robert Forbes, organist.

The reception was held in the Parish Hall following the wedding when a four-tiered iced fruit cake was cut by the bridal couple. Nancy Santee clad in a rose-pink lace dress circulated the guest book.

When the bride and groom left for a two weeks honeymoon in Canada Audrey donned a natural colored linen sheath dress and matching duster both having avocado colored embroidery. Her hat and accessories matched the embroidery.

The couple will live in Carmel when they return from their wedding trip.

Susan Lynn Sumner Arrives

Pat and Dick Sumner now have a boy and a girl in their family. Their daughter, Susan Lynn, arrived on June 30 in the Monterey Hospital. She is a husky young lady weighing eight pounds, two ounces, measures 21 inches, and has "lots of brown hair", says her father. Susan came home with her mother on the Fourth of July and her one year old brother, Scott Howard, met her for the first time. Scott had been visiting grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timbers while his mother was in the hospital.

Next fall the Sumners plan to move to Arcata. Dick will attend Humboldt State College, studying veterinary medicine. He has been attending Hartnell College for the past two years and Pat has been on the nursing staff of the Monterey Hospital.

Visitors From Buffalo

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Woodward drove to Oakland on Monday to meet the City of San Francisco which brought to California Mrs. Woodward's sister, Mary; her husband, Dr. Leo Legierski; and their three children, Michael, John and Rosemary; as well as Dr. Legierski's mother, Mrs. Rose Legierski and his cousin Miss Alice Legierski, who all live in Buffalo, New York.

The Legierskis will spend this month here as guests of the Woodwards who have various events planned for their relatives' visit including the California Rodeo for the children.

Mrs. Legierski (Mary Lou McGowan) met her husband when he was stationed at Fort Ord with the Army's Medical Corps. After their marriage they were sent to Germany where their first child was born. On his release from the Army Dr. Legierski entered private dental practice in Buffalo, New York.

Jessica Bryant Born July 2

Karen and Ed Bryant have named their daughter Jessica Reeve. She was born on Monday afternoon at 2:37 o'clock in the Peninsula Community Hospital and weighed seven and a half pounds. Jessica is a name on Karen's side of the family and Reeve is Ed's middle name. Jessica is the Bryant's first child, and the first grandchild for Mona and Henry Williams, Karen's parents, and also for Mrs. Betty Bryant, Ed's mother.

That is not Jessica's only claim to the "first" category though, as she is the first great-grandchild for Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams, the first great-great niece for Mrs. Susan Porter; the first great-niece for Lyn and Laidlaw Williams; the first niece for Chris and Lacy Williams and a first in various cousin relationships to Mrs. Valentine Miller, and Dr. Russell Williams and their children, as well as the Laidlaw Williams' children.

Janet Strasburger Bride

Janet Strasburger was married to Ensign Steven Sassoon of Baghdad, Iraq, and of Chicago, Illinois and the United States Naval Postgraduate School on Saturday at noon in the Chapel of the Postgraduate School. Chaplain Herbert C. Albrecht performed the ceremony attended by family members.

Arthur Strasburger, Jr., gave his sister in marriage. She wore a suit of pale beige linen with matching accessories and her flowers were white butterfly orchids.

Her sister, Mrs. Harry Louis Murphy of San Jose, was her attendant in a beige Italian silk suit to which she pinned a corsage of shattered carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. Arthur Strasburger attended her daughter's wedding in a navy blue Italian silk suit with mauve hat and accessories and a pink rose and stephanotis corsage.

A wedding luncheon was held in the Strasburger home following the marriage, after which the bride and groom left by air for Vancouver, British Columbia, to honeymoon at the Empress Hotel. On their return they will reside in the Bay area.

The bride attended Carmel schools, Principia Upper College in St. Louis, Missouri, and was graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles. Just previous to her marriage she had been secretary to Captain Carter L. Bennett of the Naval Postgraduate School.

Her husband is the son of Hakham Sassoon of Iraq. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois in structural engineering. Before entering the Navy he was associaed with the Chicago firm of Alfred Benesch and Associates, as project engineer.

In Cornwall, England, people once believed that the first member of a newly wedded couple to drink water from a certain old well would become boss of the household.

Humanity's need for effective prayer will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament" is the Golden Text from Psalms (19:14): "Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer."

The importance of earnest prayer to God is brought out in readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, which will include the following (4:3-9): "What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth of grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds. To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done."

Youth Center In Park District, Tentative Plan

trict, "people would be taxed twice for the same thing," if the service area and the park district were both set up.

The school district is willing to continue to finance the recreation program but not to increase its contribution to the youth center, Wakefield added.

Councilman Jim Buffington, who is a member of the youth center adult board, asked if putting the youth center in a Park and Recreation District would not make a "public building" of the the youth center; he was also concerned that the youth center might lose its autonomy if it became subject to the government of a Park and Recreation District Board. Wakefield said he thought the youth center could continue under the same administration.

The city council, County Administrator Walter Mansfield and County Supervisor Art Balchin, discussed the several types of Park and Recreational Districts that could be formed; one has its taxing powers limited to 25 cents, another 50 cents; still another, a regional park district, to three or four cents. One is governed by a board appointed by the county supervisors, another has an elective board, though Wakefield said if the people prefer the elective board in the former case they can include it on the ballot when they vote for the district. They can also elect their board members on this same ballot.

The mayor and most of the councilmen favored the type of district whose board of directors is elected. Francis Whitaker, who has had experience passing petitions (initiative to repeal the city sales tax five years ago) recommended avoiding the district that requires signatures of 15 percent of the voters to get underway.

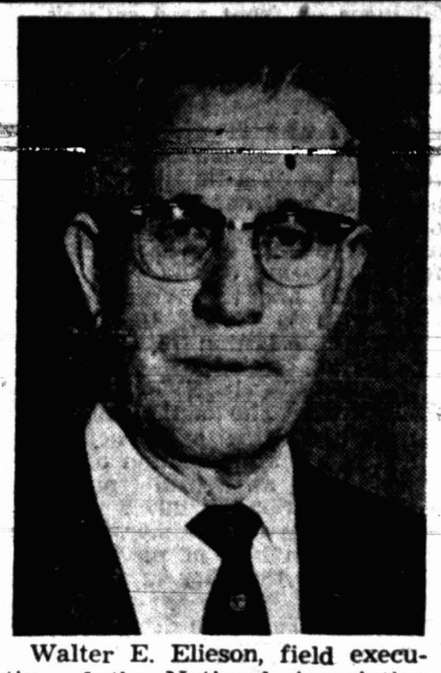
Though legal processes of forming the districts differ in detail, all wind up with public hearings and an election.

John Chitwood wondered how willing the people would be to creat another agency to tax themselves, and several councilmen thought it would be wise to set up a budget for a five year program of land acquisition so the people would know what would be expected of them tax-wise.

Balchin warned against including in the district areas that the state might be persuaded to include in its program of beach acquisition. "Once a local agency has taken on responsibility of acquiring these areas, the state won't do anything about it." He mentioned extension of the state park along Carmel Point, the beach section north of town and the Carmel River-Mission Ranch area, marked for acquisition on the Green Belt portion of the proposed master plan for Carmel.

There will be another meeting as soon as the group has more detailed information on the legal procedures and requirements. for the various districts. The district attorney's office and the state recreational department will be asked to furnish this material.

The committee agreed that there would not be time to establish the district for inclusion on the county tax rolls by February 1, 1957.



Walter E. Elieson, field executive of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will spend next Monday in Carmel consulting with local Realtors and other business leaders, Ray Gibbs, president of the Carmel Board of Realtors announced yesterday.

During his visit, Elieson will address a meeting of the Carmel Board at Cypress West Hotel, according to President Gibbs. He will speak on Good Business Ahead in Building Better Communities.

Recital Shows Rapid Student Progress

A distinguished audience crammed the DeNeale Morgan Studio on Sunday to hear the voice and piano recital by students of Miss Lindsay-Oliver. Those present reported it an amazing demonstration of what can be done with voice production, aptitude and work in a comparatively short time. Heard in interesting classical selections were Joan Jenkins, Marcia Hadden-Pratt, Valerie Hattery, Joanne and David Schoenbrod, Richard Turner, Lewis Perkins and Sascha Willcox. All performed with power and expression.

A program was also given by four of them at the Carmel Foundation to a filled house on Wednesday. The Winds of Freedom from The New Day, Lindsay-Oliver's work dedicated to World Peace, was particularly liked, also her accompanying throughout. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jeanie Klenke and her niece DeNeale, who is here on a summer visit and her friend Jeanie Eagleton —J. M. K.

GUESTS FOR MISS HAGUE

On a visit to Honolulu last summer Miss Alexandra Hague met William and Lois Gordon, brother and sister, both physical educations teachers in the Bay region. Last weekend they came to Carmel to visit Miss Hague and see Carmel.

"They loved the Marriage of Figaro in English at Sunset School", reports Miss Hague, "and sleeping outside in their sleeping bags in my Peter Pan Nursery playground."

Not so successful was the hike to Cathedral trees for a panoramic view of the area which Miss Hague and the Gordons took on Sunday with seven other hikers. The fog closed down on the hills south of Carmel so thickly that the visitors and their hostess could not even see the fence at the other end of the meadow when they reached the Cathedral trees.
